CBC Terms and Conditions

Enrolments will only be accepted with full payment. No credit terms are available and full payment must be received prior to course commencement.

Class sizes are limited to 20 students. This allows for a better and more flexible learning environment.

A minimum number of enrolled students are required in order for the course to go ahead.

In the event that the course is postponed or cancelled students wanting a refund are liable to a processing fee of 10%. For those students wanting to do the next available course a new date will be announced and all paid candidates will have the first opportunity to attend the next or postponed course.

No refunds or part thereof are available for non-attendance of any of the classes.

However, in the event that a student has legitimate reason to discontinue the course (medical, family emergency etc.) the student needs to provide appropriate certification, and agreement reached between CBC and the student on an appropriate refund. Full refunds are generally not available.

There is no assessment for short courses and no prior knowledge requirement to enroll. It is, however, recommended that you have had some prior exposure to home brewing of some sort.

Every reasonable effort will be made to make the course sites safe, emergency procedures provided and safety procedures explained at commencement of the course. No responsibility for accidents or injury will be taken by CBC or the venue operators.

The signing of the enrollment form signifies that you have read, understood, and accepted the terms and conditions contained herewith.
